ASSET LANGUAGES – INTERMEDIATE STAGE

SECTION A: INTRODUCTION

1 The Asset Languages Scheme

1.1 RATIONALE

Introduction

The Languages Ladder, part of the DfES' National Languages Strategy (NLS), is a multi-stage learning programme designed to extend the opportunities for learning languages.

The Languages Ladder is designed to endorse competence in language learning. It allows learners to progress in one or more of the four skills (Listening, Speaking, Reading, Writing) in one or more languages and also offers the opportunity for people to assess their own levels of language competence. Each stage comprises different grades which use a 'can do' statement to describe the typical behaviour of a learner at that stage. Within each, the grades are progressive but may address different aspects of each skill. The complete 'can do' statements are given in the appendix and include, for example:

Speaking Grade 5: I can give a short prepared talk, on a topic of my choice, including expressing simple opinions.

The NLS aims to increase the teaching and learning of languages in England. Asset Languages is a voluntary assessment scheme designed to support the NLS by providing recognition of attainment and associated accreditation options against the Languages Ladder. It is suitable for all ages and abilities. The scheme is designed as a measure of proficiency and thus is not associated with any particular programme of study. It can sit alongside Entry Level, GCSE, vocationally related or NVQ qualifications. By being portable it supports lifelong learning of languages from primary school through secondary to further, higher and adult education.

The scheme will ultimately be available in six stages – Breakthrough, Preliminary, Intermediate, Advanced, Proficiency and Mastery. Learners can be assessed in one or more of the four skills (Listening, Speaking, Reading, Writing) through Teacher Assessment and/or External Assessment. The former leads to a locally issued Grade Award, whilst the latter leads to an OCR Certificate.

This specification relates to the Intermediate Stage. Each of the other stages is covered by separate specifications.

The first four stages relate to the National Qualifications Framework (NQF) levels as follows.

Languages Ladder Stages	NQF
Breakthrough: Grades 1–3	Entry Level
Preliminary: Grades 4–6	Level 1
Intermediate: Grades 7–9	Level 2
Advanced: Grades 10–12	Level 3

These specifications will comply in every respect with the requirements of The statutory regulation of external qualifications in England, Wales and Northern Ireland (2004).

OCR has taken great care in the preparation of these specifications and associated assessment material to avoid bias of any kind.

Languages Available

From September 2007 the following languages are available at Intermediate stage:

Arabic, Bengali, Chinese*, French, German, Modern Greek, Gujarati, Irish, Italian, Japanese, Panjabi, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, Turkish, Urdu and Welsh.

* Chinese includes: Chinese (Mandarin) Listening and Speaking
Chinese (Simplified) Reading and Writing
Chinese (Cantonese) Listening and Speaking
Chinese (Traditional) Reading and Writing

The terms Chinese (Mandarin) and Chinese (Cantonese) may be used in support documentation to cover these qualifications.

The principles described in this specification are applicable to all languages. OCR publishes language-specific supplements which include grammar and linguistic structures and defined vocabulary lists where appropriate.

Asset Languages as a proficiency framework

The Asset Languages project requires a framework which links coherently across a wide range of absolute language proficiency levels, different languages, contexts of learning and modes of assessment delivery. A strong theoretical and measurement model is necessary in order to construct this framework. The following are important features of the approach.

Asset Languages grades constitute a proficiency scale. That is, they reflect a view that learners acquiring language skills follow a roughly similar path through a number of levels, which can be described. The task of assessment is to locate the level that a learner is currently at. The predictable nature of progression means that proficiency-oriented assessments need not be closely associated with any particular programme of study. This distinguishes them from achievement tests. Notwithstanding this, language use and language testing are necessarily situated in specific contexts, and different language systems pose specific problems for learners. For this reason general guidance has been provided as to the range of topics, and hence vocabulary, in the form of functional areas and aspects of the language system that will be included in assessments.

How test performance relates to real-world abilities

The Languages Ladder ‘can do’ statements are to be taken as short descriptions of the meaning of a level in terms which are accessible and useful to end-users. They are examples of the likely observable outcomes of achieving a certain level of proficiency. They are not definitions of proficiency to a level of detail that would meet the needs of teachers to develop classroom schemes of work, of test constructors to write suitable tasks to achieve coverage of the level, or of raters to judge performance in relation to a level. Each of these purposes would require different and fuller specification.

All assessments bear an indirect relationship to the real world, because it is not possible to recreate authentically within the test all aspects of target language use. Performance on test tasks may not directly equate to real-world ‘can do’s. However, through validation studies, we attempt to provide the evidence that supports interpretation in terms of the skills typically displayed by a learner at a given level.

Assessment Methodology

The assessment methodology for the receptive skills is based on an item-banking approach and is designed to provide a rigorous basis for comparison across languages and levels. It relies on pretesting of tasks to ensure that papers are statistically comparable. This has the additional advantage that it supports the multiple versions of tests needed for on-demand assessment and enables parallel versions of computer-based and paper-based tests to be offered during the development of the scheme. Productive skills are assessed on a criteria-based approach. Wherever possible, tasks are trialled for suitability prior to final question paper construction. For small-entry languages, full pretesting is not always possible and a variety of techniques is used to determine levels.

Specification Aims

The specifications are designed to give students opportunities to:

- develop an understanding of standard spoken and written forms of their chosen language relating to a range of familiar matters;
- develop the ability to communicate effectively in a range of familiar matters in standard written and spoken language;
- develop positive attitudes towards language learning.

Assessment Objectives

There are four assessment objectives, each corresponding to the appropriate qualification.

Listening

- Understand speech, spoken at near normal speed, and relating to a range of familiar matters;

Speaking

- Communicate and respond to spoken language relating to a range of familiar matters;

Reading

- Understand authentic texts on familiar matters or situations;

Writing

- Write texts on familiar matters or in predictable situations by using and adapting language for new purposes.

The four assessment objectives are tested separately and form the basis of separate qualifications.

1.2 CERTIFICATION TITLES

These specifications will be shown on a certificate as:

OCR Level 2 Certificate in Language Listening (Intermediate) (Asset Languages)

OCR Level 2 Certificate in Language Speaking (Intermediate) (Asset Languages)

OCR Level 2 Certificate in Language Reading (Intermediate) (Asset Languages)

OCR Level 2 Certificate in Language Writing (Intermediate) (Asset Languages)

1.3 LEVEL OF QUALIFICATION

This qualification is approved by the regulatory authorities (QCA, DELLS and CCEA) as part of the National Qualifications Framework.

Level 2 specifications are designed to recognise the achievement of candidates who are becoming independent users of the language. Candidates who have achieved the qualification in all four skills should be able to understand the main points of clear standard input on familiar matters regularly encountered in, for example, work, school, leisure, or travelling. They can produce simple connected text on topics of personal interest, giving reasons and explanations for opinions and plans.

1.4 RECOMMENDED PRIOR LEARNING AND PROGRESSION

Asset Languages provides a measurement of language proficiency and is independent of any specific course of study.

Candidates who are studying a language for Intermediate stage should normally have attained the level represented by achievement of the Preliminary stage in the appropriate skill. This may be achieved through the generic study of any Level 1 qualification (e.g. Foundation GCSE) in the language.

These Level 2 qualifications may be studied as part of lifelong learning for many reasons both recreational and/or vocational. They serve as an end in themselves for candidates who wish to develop an independent use of the language or they may be used as a basis for progression up the Languages Ladder to Advanced stage and beyond.

1.5 GUIDED LEARNING HOURS

Each qualification requires a nominal 40 guided learning hours.

This figure is based on a learner studying the language from a Level 1 (Preliminary Stage) base. In practice, learners will bring very different experiences to bear and there will be a wide variety of learning hours. Where languages present particular issues in script-acquisition, additional guided learning hours may be necessary for progress in reading and writing.

1.6 OVERLAP WITH OTHER QUALIFICATIONS

These qualifications have considerable overlap with the higher tiers of GCSE in Modern Foreign Languages and the OCR Level 2 Certificate in Business Language Competence. Unlike these qualifications, however, each skill may be certificated separately.

1.7 RESTRICTIONS ON CANDIDATE ENTRIES

There is no restriction on candidate entries.

Every specification is assigned to a national classification code indicating the subject area to which it belongs.

Centres should be aware that candidates who enter for more than one qualification with the same classification code will have only one grade (the highest) counted for the purpose of the School and College Achievement and Attainment Tables.

1.8 LANGUAGE OF SPECIFICATIONS AND ASSESSMENT MATERIALS

OCR will provide specifications, assessments and supporting documentation in English only, with the exception of French, which will also be provided through the medium of Welsh. Additional languages may be supplied through the medium of Welsh if there is sufficient demand.

SECTION B: SCHEME OF ASSESSMENT

2 The Nature of Assessment

2.1 TEACHER ASSESSMENT

A feature of the scheme is its use of Teacher Assessment, which enables a centre to issue a Grade Award directly to its students. It is motivational and, by working through a series of short term goals, provides an excellent preparation for External Assessment.

Teacher Assessment is work that is set by OCR but marked by the teacher according to mark schemes supplied by OCR. Teacher Assessment is available at each of the three Grades 7, 8 and 9 in all four skills.

All centres can offer Teacher Assessment as part of the scheme, but in order to award Grade Awards a centre must have access to an Accredited Teacher who is prepared to supervise the marking of assessments according to principles laid down by OCR, which will include internal standardisation.

Centres should note that, since it does not involve External Assessment, a Grade Award cannot be regarded as a formal qualification within the National Qualifications Framework. It does nevertheless provide:

- a short-term motivational goal for students;
- a good measure of students' attainment for use in a range of informal contexts.

2.2 EXTERNAL ASSESSMENT

In order to achieve a formal, certificated qualification, candidates must be entered for External Assessment. External Assessment has been designed to recognise the achievement of candidates at the end of the Preliminary stage and it is recommended that candidates are normally entered following the award of Grade 9 through Teacher Assessment, though other entry strategies are possible.

Each External Assessment comprises a single, short test, details of which are given in Section 3. The test covers the entire stage and candidates who achieve marks at or above the minimum standard are awarded Grade 7, 8 or 9.

External Assessment in Reading, Writing and Listening is work that is set and marked by OCR. Speaking is assessed through a selection of OCR set tasks and a presentation. It is assessed by a teacher. Part 1 is moderated by OCR.

External Assessment is carried out under controlled conditions which are described in Section 6.1. These are designed to ensure that the qualification is valid and reliable, whilst avoiding the more formal requirements associated with some modes of External Assessment. It is expected that most External Assessment will take place within the normal classroom environment, though other models, including the use of classroom assistants, may be possible.

External Assessment is available to centres throughout much of the academic year. In practice, this means that centres can offer tests at a time of their choosing, provided that entries have been made in accordance with the schedules provided by OCR.

In order to enable centres to offer tests to pupils within normal class time, a number of versions of each test are made available and centres are expected to ensure that security is maintained by following the rules laid down in Section 6.1.

2.3 CONTEXTS

Asset Languages is designed to promote lifelong learning in languages. In order to ensure that assessment materials are appropriate for different age groups, both Teacher Assessment and External Assessment will eventually be available in up to two contexts for the Intermediate Stage:

- Secondary
- Post-16

All contexts will provide equivalent assessment and there are no restrictions on entry.

2.4 COMPUTER-BASED ASSESSMENT

Asset Languages is designed to encourage the use of computer-based learning in languages.

Delivery will be based on the Cambridge Assessment computer-based test administration system (Cambridge Connect). Cambridge Connect is a secure system that is designed to avoid problems of internet connectivity and slow speeds by delivering test bundles to centres in advance of the test date. Through the use of a centre-based test delivery client system (TDC) the centre is then able to deliver tests to candidates at the time of their choice.

Regulations for sessions are included in the External Assessment Reference Guide.

In order to establish a basis for comparability, questions will initially be identical to those used in paper-based tests. Once a set of anchor items is securely in place, further tasks will be created to utilise more fully the potential of computer-based tests.

2.5 AVAILABILITY OF ASSESSMENT MATERIALS

Up-to-date information on External Assessment sessions and availability of languages and stages can be found on the Asset Languages website.

2.6 AWARDING OF GRADES

Each qualification is graded on a three point scale: Grades 7, 8 and 9. Grades are awarded on the basis of External Assessment only.

External Assessment is primarily designed for candidates who are expected to achieve Grade 9. However, candidates who do not achieve this grade may be awarded Grade 7 or 8, depending upon their performance. The teacher assessment materials are designed to support teachers in making suitable judgements with regard to entry.

Wherever possible, questions are pretested and grade thresholds will eventually be predetermined, though awarding meetings will be held until stability is achieved. Grades are awarded on the basis of the candidates' raw marks in relation to the threshold. Candidates who fail to achieve the mark for the Grade 7 threshold are ungraded.

3 External Assessment Methods

3.1 GENERAL

All papers are based on the specification content described in Section 4. Language-specific content is published in separate supplements available on the website.

Rubrics are in English.

Dictionaries are not permitted in any external assessment, though words may be glossed where appropriate.

The external assessments in Listening and Reading are designed to contain material that covers the 'can do' statements for all three grades within a stage, i.e. Grades 7, 8 and 9 at Intermediate. External assessment in Speaking and Writing will require the level of achievement to be measured against performance criteria.

3.2 LISTENING

Tasks are intended to test comprehension. Rubrics and questions are all in English.

The assessment is a test of approximately 30 minutes' duration. It comprises 25 questions, each worth one mark. The test is available in paper-based format. For some languages, it is also available in computer-based form.

Candidates are required to listen to texts of varying length, including short and longer monologues (such as answer-phone messages) and short and longer dialogues (such as simple conversations) from a range of adapted authentic sources. Candidates hear all spoken materials twice.

A range of task types are used which are similar to or of an equal difficulty to the following. Task types are generally ordered so that the less demanding tasks appear earlier in the paper.

- Three-option multiple-choice (visual) task based on a series of five short discrete dialogues, with a variety of topics, speakers, situations and time references.
- Matching task based on a series of five short monologues. The task is to match a person to a statement. There are five items and six statements.
- Note-taking or sentence-completion task based on a monologue, usually a factual presentation. Candidates have to write a word in English to complete the notes or sentences.
- Three-way matching task based on a longer dialogue. Candidates have to match statements to either of the speakers or to both.
- Three-option multiple-choice task based on either a longer dialogue (conversation, interview) or a longer monologue (presentation, talk) relating to familiar matters.

3.3 SPEAKING

The assessment is a test of 8 minutes' duration. It is conducted and assessed by the teacher. The test is not available in computer-based form.

Part 1 of the test, comprising tasks 1 and 2, is conducted face-to-face, with one teacher and one candidate. The teacher follows an interlocutor frame in order to standardise assessments. Part 2 of the test may either be conducted face-to-face or may take the form of a presentation to a group or whole class. Part 1 must be recorded on cassette and is moderated by an OCR appointed moderator. Part 2 is not externally moderated. Parts 1 and 2 can be conducted on the same occasion or on separate occasions.

Part 1

The interlocutor has a frame with questions in the target language which are to be used as prompts. The questions are graded to elicit answers that go from factual details to the expression of ideas and opinions.

Task 1 consists of the candidate's answering personal questions, graded from a simple familiar question to two or three extended questions giving the candidate the opportunity to use a range of tenses. The examiner chooses from topics and questions provided in the Speaking test pack.

Task 2 consists of an interaction task. Tasks are used which allow the candidate to interact with the examiner, to initiate conversation and to use a range of language; for example, a task based on a card which contains two contrasting photographs on a related topic. The candidate is given some time to familiarise him/herself with the photographs. The photographs are used as a support to start a discussion on a specific topic on which the candidate is asked to express his/her opinion and to justify his/her choices.

Part 2

Task 3 consists of two sections:

Section A consists of a presentation lasting two minutes on a topic previously chosen and prepared by the candidate, guided by a list of suitable topic areas. At this stage, these are as follows.

- An account of something the candidate has experienced and his/her reaction to it.
- A 'promotional' presentation, in which the candidate describes and recommends something (a place to visit, a career, a product, a type of music, a film, etc.) s/he is personally enthusiastic about.

Up to three illustrations (photos, OHTs or PowerPoint slides) may be used. No words can appear on these support materials.

Section B is a short conversation about the presentation lasting one minute. The interlocutor asks the candidate a number of questions directly linked to the presentation. A general interlocutor frame will be available to guide the examiner.

3.4 READING

Tasks are intended to test comprehension. Rubrics and questions are all in English.

The assessment is a test of 40 minutes' duration. It comprises 30 questions, each worth one mark. The test is available in paper-based format. For some languages it is also available in computer-based form.

Candidates are required to read texts of varying length, including brief notices or messages, emails, faxes, letters, brochures and short and longer articles from a range of adapted authentic sources.

A range of task types are used which are similar to or of an equal difficulty to the following. Task types are generally ordered so that the less demanding tasks appear earlier in the paper.

- Three-option multiple-choice task based on brief notices or messages.
- Matching task with short texts in the target language on the same theme (e.g. opinion about video games / films). The task is to match texts to statements in English. There are five statements and six texts.
- Right/Wrong/Don't know task based on a longer target language text. The text is narrative, article or story of general interest.
- Three-option multiple-choice task based on a longer target language text. The text is of general interest, article or review.
- Matching task based on a text separated into five distinct paragraphs. The task is to match each paragraph to a sentence in English summarising the content of the paragraph. There are five paragraphs and six sentences.
- Gapped-text task based on a text where some sentences are missing. There are five gaps and six sentences. Candidates choose the correct sentence to complete the gap.

3.5 WRITING

The assessment is a test of 40 minutes' duration. It comprises two different tasks. Candidates are not allowed to use dictionaries.

There are two parts to the test. Part 1 has one task that all candidates must attempt. Part 2 consists of two tasks and candidates choose one.

A range of task types is used which is similar to or of an equal difficulty to the following.

Part 1

- Candidates are given instructions in English and must write an email of 50–70 words in length in the target language, covering the points mentioned in the instructions.

Part 2

- A factual writing task. Candidates are given instructions in English and have to write a text of 100–120 words in the target language.
- A creative writing task based on instructions and three key words that must be used.

3.6 MARKING CRITERIA FOR EXTERNALLY ASSESSED SPEAKING

For each part of the test, the candidate is awarded two equally weighted marks, for Language and for Communication, using the mark scheme given on the following page.

Marks can be awarded in three bands: 1, 2 and 3. Each band is then subdivided into three levels, e.g. 3.1, 3.2 and 3.3. This allows the examiner to determine, within each band, that the level has been minimally achieved (3.1), partially achieved (3.2) or fully achieved (3.3).

Examiners record their marks for both Part 1 and Part 2 on a mark sheet provided by OCR.

At Intermediate stage, Part 1 carries 60% of the final mark and Part 2 carries 40%.

3.7 MARKING CRITERIA FOR EXTERNALLY ASSESSED WRITING

For each part of the test, the candidate is awarded two equally weighted marks, for Language and for Communication, using the mark scheme given on page 17.

Marks can be awarded in three bands: 1, 2 and 3. Each band is then subdivided into three levels, e.g. 3.1, 3.2 and 3.3. This allows the teacher to determine, within each band, that the level has been minimally achieved (3.1), partially achieved (3.2) or fully achieved (3.3).

At Intermediate stage, Part 1 carries 40% of the final mark and Part 2 carries 60%.

INTERMEDIATE SPEAKING

This mark scheme is to be interpreted at Intermediate standard.

* for all non-Latin script languages

3.8 EXEMPLAR TASKS

Exemplar question papers are provided in a separate booklet available on the website. The exemplar tasks are written in English and are indicative of the content for all target languages.

Tasks are produced according to detailed item writer guidelines. These specify the exact format of each task type. Item writer guidelines are fundamental to the production of comparable tasks in a range of languages. Language-specific issues are highlighted for each team of writers during editing meetings. The guidelines are reviewed for all languages to ensure consistency in the production of the tests. All new task types are trialled and pretested to ensure comparability with existing tasks.

The exemplar question papers serve to familiarise candidates with the layout and format of tasks and how to answer them. Further preparation for the External Assessment may be achieved through the Teacher Assessment materials.

SECTION C: SPECIFICATION CONTENT

4 Specification Content

4.1 LANGUAGE PURPOSES AND FUNCTIONS

At Intermediate stage, the realisation of these functions:

- builds on the specifications at the Preliminary stage by adding length and complexity to the language used;
- occurs in a wider range of areas.

- taking part in social situations, e.g. greeting / responding to greetings; expressing thanks; apologising
- repairing communication (e.g. asking for repetition, checking meaning)
- giving information
- asking / answering questions
- describing
- asking for and giving opinions
- justifying opinions
- following / giving instructions
- asking for things
- expressing ability
- using numbers and expressing quantity
- expressing time
- agreeing / disagreeing
- comparing
- asking for and giving reasons
- expressing preferences
- making and responding to suggestions
- expressing obligation and lack of obligation
- expressing feelings and emotions
- talking about the present
- talking about the future
- talking about the past
- expressing degrees of certainty and doubt
- talking about (im)probability and (im)possibility
- giving advice
- giving warnings
- taking turns in a conversation

4.2 GRAMMAR AND LINGUISTIC STRUCTURES

Candidates are required to show knowledge of the grammar and linguistic structures that are minimally required to express the language purposes and functions in 4.1. Language-specific guidelines for grammatical and linguistic structures are provided in language-specific supplements available on the website.

4.3 VOCABULARY

The vocabulary used in Intermediate stage consists of common items that normally occur in the everyday vocabulary of native speakers using the target language today in a range of familiar areas.

Some items may be glossed to aid candidates.

SECTION D: ADMINISTRATIVE INFORMATION

5 Communicating with OCR

5.1 ROLES WITHIN CENTRES

All centres are strongly advised to appoint a Centre Coordinator. Centres offering Grade Awards for Teacher Assessment need to have access to an Accredited Teacher.

Centre Coordinator

The Centre Coordinator is the person in the centre who has a detailed understanding of the workings of the scheme. They:

- attend the Centre Coordinator training course and cascade information to colleagues;
- liaise with OCR on general queries related to Asset Languages;
- act as the point of liaison between the languages team in the centre and the Examinations Officer.

In practice, Centre Coordinators in large centres may also take on delegated responsibility from the Examinations Officer for running external assessments in class time.

In addition, they may take on a coordinating role for Teacher Assessment and Accredited Teachers.

In primary schools this role will normally be filled by the Languages Coordinator. In secondary schools and FE colleges the role would sit naturally with the Head of Languages.

Accredited Teachers

Accredited Teachers receive training regarding the implementation of Teacher Assessment.

5.2 SUPPORT FOR TEACHERS

Asset Languages will provide training courses for Centre Coordinators.

Details of availability may be obtained from:

OCR Training Division
Mill Wharf
Birmingham
B6 4BU
Tel: 0121 628 2950

Asset Languages will also be supported through:

- the website: www.assetlanguages.org.uk ;

- a helpdesk for first line support, email assetlanguages@ocr.org.uk or telephone 01223 553998;
- a dedicated Centre Support Manager for second line support;
- additional optional training courses.

Since the qualification does not specify any particular course of study, OCR does not currently endorse teaching materials. Enquiries in relation to course materials should be referred to:

CILT
20 Bedfordbury
London
WC2N 4LB
Tel: 020 7379 5101

5.3 ENTRY CODES

In order to enter for External Assessment, centres must use the appropriate Entry and Option Code. These will be published on the Asset Languages website.

6 Regulations for Assessment

6.1 REGULATIONS FOR EXTERNAL ASSESSMENT

External Assessment leads to a formal qualification and should therefore be conducted in a formal environment, though this could include a properly supervised classroom. The test should be directly supervised by a responsible individual, and there should be no opportunity for the candidates to communicate with each other. For the duration of the test there should be silence in the room where candidates are taking the test and they should be under the direct observation of an individual.

External Assessment tests will be formally timed according to the length of time stated on the front of the question paper.

Question paper packets should be checked upon receipt by the centre and stored in secure conditions with restricted access. Under no circumstances may any packet be opened prior to the nominated date/time at which the test will be conducted. Any confidential material received on tapes or other media should be checked prior to the test taking place so that any defects can be reported to OCR and a replacement despatched if necessary.

In order to maintain the security of the tests, centres that have multiple groups of candidates sitting for the same assessment, but at different times, will need to request a number of different versions of the test so that a different version is being used for each time/date during the entry session. For example:

Set 1 are writing Intermediate French in the morning.

Sets 2 and 3 are writing Intermediate French in the afternoon.

The centre would need to request 2 versions of the test – one for use in the morning, and another for the afternoon.

No display material (e.g. wall charts/posters) that may be explicitly helpful to candidates must be visible in the test room.

The seating arrangements must be such as to prevent candidates from seeing, intentionally or otherwise, the work of others.

Supervisors must give their full attention to the proper conduct of the test. At least one supervisor must be present for every group of 30 candidates or part thereof.

Unauthorised material, including mobile telephones, pagers, pocket translators, and any other products with text facilities, are not permitted in the test room. Any such materials must be handed to a supervisor prior to the start of the test.

The supervisor should remind candidates that they are forbidden to communicate with another candidate whilst they are in the test room.

At the end of the test candidates must be told to stop writing. Candidates who have been awarded extra time as a result of a Special Arrangements application (see section 6.3) may continue writing for the permitted period of time.

All answer scripts and question papers must be collected in and accounted for, prior to the candidates leaving the room. If test sessions are being held for different classes over a number of days, scripts should be stored under secure conditions until the end of the last test and then despatched together to the examiner.

Any question paper which does not form part of a candidate's answer script must be returned to OCR.

It is the duty of the Head of Centre to ensure that all cases of irregular conduct or suspected malpractice are reported to OCR.

6.2 MODERATION OF SPEAKING

Centres will assess and internally standardise candidates. This will result in a rank order for the centre that must be internally standardised if carried out by more than one assessor.

Marks are then submitted to OCR, after which moderation takes place in accordance with OCR procedures. The purpose of moderation is to ensure that the standard of the award of marks for internally assessed work is the same for each centre and that each teacher has applied the standards appropriately across the range of candidates within the centre.

The sample of work which is presented to the Moderator must show how the marks have been awarded in relation to the marking criteria.

The candidates selected for moderation should be spread as evenly as possible across the range of marks (e.g. 3 good, 4 middling, 3 weak). They should be recorded on audio tape.

For each assessment window, OCR publishes a fixed date by which moderation samples must be received. If a sample is received after this date, the Speaking test results for the centre concerned may be held over to the next assessment window.

Feedback to Centres

OCR will give feedback to centres on the suitability of tasks, the appropriateness of marking and the outcome of the moderating procedure.

6.3 CANDIDATES REQUIRING SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS

General

OCR is committed to creating access to the Asset Languages scheme and permits a range of special arrangements to be made for eligible candidates.

In order to ensure the validity of the qualification, all candidates, including those with a disability or learning difficulty, will be required to demonstrate the same standards of competence in the skill tested.

There will be no allowance for candidates who are unable to take, or fail to complete, a test, for whatever reason. Such candidates should be re-entered at the earliest possible opportunity.

Eligibility

Candidates will be eligible for special arrangements provided they have been previously identified as eligible for the purposes of the Key Stage tests, Entry level, GCSE, GNVQ, GCE or VCE. Candidates in Further or Higher Education who are eligible for Additional Learning Support are also eligible for special arrangements.

Arrangements Available

The following arrangements are available for each paper.

	Listening	Speaking	Reading	Writing
A3 enlarged paper	✓	✓	✓	✓
Braille ¹	✓	✓	✓	✓
Extra time	✓	✓	✓	✓
Word processor	✓	n/a	✓	✓
Scribe	✓	n/a	✓	See below
Extra tape	✓	n/a	n/a	n/a
Transcript	✓	n/a	n/a	n/a
Reader	n/a	n/a	No	✓

Note:

Centres should create their own A3 enlarged paper from the A4 paper supplied.

Note that a reader is not permitted in the reading paper, since this would create an invalid result. A scribe is not permitted in the writing paper unless only multiple choice answers are involved or any words in the foreign language are spelt letter by letter.

Applications

Applications for special arrangements are not required for candidates who satisfy the eligibility requirements. The cover sheet on the script should be completed, stating the special arrangements that have been allowed.

¹ Subject to availability in the language.

Applications for braille papers will be required only in externally assessed examinations.
Centres may braille materials required for Teacher Assessment.

In such cases, advice should be sought from the OCR Special Requirements team (telephone 01223 552505) as early as possible during the course.

SECTION E: FURTHER INFORMATION

7 Opportunities for Teaching

7.1 SPIRITUAL, MORAL, ETHICAL, SOCIAL AND CULTURAL ISSUES

Languages provide opportunities to promote learners' spiritual, moral, ethical, social and cultural development.

Learners' spiritual development involves the growth of their sense of self, their unique potential, their understanding of their own strengths and weaknesses, and their will to achieve. The study of a modern foreign language permits all of these facets to develop.

Learners' moral and ethical development involves their acquiring an understanding of the difference between right and wrong and of moral conflict, a concern for others and the will to do what is right. They are able and willing to reflect on the consequences of their actions and learn how to forgive themselves and others. Many contexts can lend themselves particularly well to this end.

Learners' social development involves their acquiring an understanding of the responsibilities and rights of being members of families and communities (local, national, global) and an ability to relate to others and to work with others for the common good. As the use of language is a social activity, skill in conducting various relationships is fostered by their study.

Learners' cultural development involves their acquiring an understanding of cultural traditions and an ability to respond to a variety of aesthetic experiences. They acquire a respect for their own culture and that of others, an interest in others' ways of doing things and curiosity about differences. Teaching languages through a range of contexts creates constant scope for developing pupils' cultural awareness, especially where the target language is used in more than one country.

7.2 HEALTH, SAFETY AND ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES

OCR has taken account of the 1988 Resolution of the Council of the European Community and the Report Environmental Responsibility: An Agenda for Further and Higher Education, 1993, in preparing these specifications and associated specimen assessments.

Whilst making no specific demands from teachers, these specifications permit issues of health, safety and environment to be addressed through suitable teaching programmes.

The following contexts provide examples of particular relevance to health, safety and environmental issues.

- Food and drink (primary)
- Good health, bad health, injuries (primary + secondary)
- Environment (primary, secondary, adult)
- Crime (secondary, adult)
- World events and issues (secondary, adult)

7.3 THE EUROPEAN DIMENSION

OCR has taken account of the 1988 Resolution of the Council of the European Community in preparing these specifications and associated specimen assessments. European examples should be used where appropriate in the delivery of the subject content.

Languages intrinsically support cross-cultural understanding and European languages in particular contribute to a greater awareness of our European partners.

7.4 KEY SKILLS AND ADULT NUMERACY/LITERACY

Key Skills are central to successful employment and underpin further success in learning independently. They are certificated separately. The Key Skills guidance for this qualification has been designed to support the teaching and learning of the content.

A programme of study leading specifically to a language qualification would not by itself lead to opportunities to demonstrate competence in Application of Number or Problem Solving.

Although the Key Skill of Communication is central to the study of Modern Foreign Languages, the Communication specification requires evidence to be produced in English, Irish or Welsh as the mother tongue. MFL, therefore, offers opportunities for developing, rather than producing evidence of, this Key Skill.

The following matrix indicates those Key Skills for which opportunities for at least some coverage of the relevant Key Skills units exist.

	Communication	Application of Number	IT	Working with Others	Improving Own Learning and Performance	Problem Solving
Level 1	✓		✓	✓	✓
Level 2	✓		✓	✓	✓

The wider Key Skills of Working with Others and Improving Own Learning and Performance may also be developed through the teaching programmes associated with the specifications.

APPENDIX: THE LANGUAGES LADDER

The Languages Ladder, part of the DfES' National Languages Strategy (NLS), is a six-stage learning programme that has been introduced in order to extend the opportunities for learning foreign languages.

Each stage comprises different grades that use a 'can do' statement to describe the typical behaviour of a candidate at that stage.

e.g. Speaking Grade 5: I can give a short prepared talk on a topic of my choice including expressing simple opinions.

Within each stage the grades are progressive but may address different aspects of each skill.

The Proficiency and Mastery stages are under development.

LISTENING

Breakthrough – Grades 1–3

On completing this stage, you should be able to understand a basic range of everyday expressions relating to personal details and needs. You may need to listen several times to get the information you need, depending on how fast and clearly the speaker talks. You should have some understanding of a few simple grammatical structures and sentence patterns. You should be familiar with the sound system of the language. You should be aware of how to address people both formally and informally as appropriate.

Preliminary – Grades 4–6

On completing this stage, you should be able to understand standard speech relating to a range of predictable everyday matters, providing that it is spoken clearly and directly. You should be able to recognise the difference between past, present and future events and be familiar with simple forms of the verb tenses.

Intermediate – Grades 7–9

You should now be comfortable with a range of tenses, and should be able to understand authentic passages on familiar matters. On completing this stage, you should be able to follow much of what is said at near normal speed on familiar matters or in predictable situations. You should be able to give an oral or written summary of what you have heard.

Advanced – Grades 10–12

You should now be comfortable understanding a range of tenses and a variety of registers. On completing this stage, you should be able to understand the majority of what you hear in the target language, including references to the culture and society of countries/communities where the language is spoken.

LISTENING

Breakthrough	Grade 1	I can understand a few familiar spoken words and phrases.
	Grade 2	I can understand a range of familiar spoken phrases.
	Grade 3	I can understand the main point(s) from a short spoken passage.
Preliminary	Grade 4	I can understand the main points and some of the detail from a short spoken passage.
	Grade 5	I can understand the main points and simple opinions (e.g. likes and dislikes) of a longer spoken passage.
	Grade 6	I can understand spoken passages referring to present and past or future events.
Intermediate	Grade 7	I can understand longer passages and recognise people's points of view.
	Grade 8	I can understand passages including some unfamiliar material from which I can recognise attitudes and emotions.
	Grade 9	I can understand the gist of a range of authentic passages in familiar contexts.
Advanced	Grade 10	I can understand the main points of an authentic spoken passage/conversation involving one or more speakers.
	Grade 11	I can understand the main points of authentic spoken passages and conversations in a range of different contexts.
	Grade 12	I can identify the majority of points and am able to infer the meaning of a range of authentic passages/conversations spoken at near native speed.

SPEAKING

Breakthrough – Grades 1–3

On completing this stage, you should be able to use a basic range of everyday expressions relating to personal details and needs. Your pronunciation will not always be completely accurate but your meaning will be clear. You should be able to understand and use a few simple grammatical structures and sentence patterns. You should be familiar with the sound system of the language. You should be aware of how to address people both formally and informally as appropriate.

Preliminary – Grades 4–6

On completing this stage, you should be able to use and adapt learned language relating to a range of predictable everyday matters.
